

Access to Drinking Water in Nigeria

Access to clean water is a basic human need that should be available to everyone, regardless of their status in society.

In Nigeria, access to basic drinking water has services has increased from 43.2% in 2000 to 80% of the population in 2022.

Growth in both the Urban and Rural population is commendable, however, the rural population is still playing catch-up as only 63% have access to basic drinking water services. There is still more work to be done to acheive the goal of ensuring that every citizen has access to basic drinking water in Nigeria
